Season IV – A Welcome Back Letter from your President

By T-Bolt and Po Boy

To All Kickballers

I just want to say welcome back to K.O.C.C.! This has been a very trying off season, but I'm glad we're all back and all safe! There are a few kickballers that couldn't return and they will be truly missed. There are a few new teams like: The fuzz and Crown and Anchor, we have returning teams like Lucy's and a team that retired and will not be back, long live the Red Army. Let's welcome the new teams and show them a good time. Everyone have a good season and remember to have fun!

Sincerely,

Toni (AKA T-Bolt)
President of K.O.C.C.

Food Critic – The Chippery at Finn's

The Fish and Chips at Finn's is newly opened as of Friday June 9 for the world cup games. Included on the menu are Fish and Chips ($7.50), Battered sausage and chips ($6.50), chips ($2.50) and servings of gravy or curry sauce are offered for the chips ($1.00), among other related items.

Sexy Sadie (Beat-All and Chippee girl) describes the fish as "fantastic". Very fish flavored, fried fishy crispy, and the gravy is amazing, that Pauline makes all by herself.

The chips are potatoes, sliced and deep fried, and come wrapped in paper in a very sizeable quantity. The battered sausage is just fried sausage in batter, similarly made to the fish.

This food critic had the honor of eating the chips smothered in the curry sauce ($3.50). Incredible! The curry sauce is well seasoned, spicy and vegetarian. If you love Indian food, you will enjoy this different spin of eating spicy curry on fried potatoes. Rocket Pants goes on to add that it is the best curry sauce he has ever had on his chips.

Pillow Talk – Maxwell Edison (Majoring in Medicine)

JK Rowling was voted the greatest living British writer. I have nothing else to say about that.

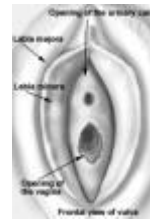

In other frustrations, can I just talk about how I'm tired of people pointing out phallic symbols to me? Yes, yes, the Empire State building, missiles and Sarah Jessica Parker's nose all resemble male genitalia. But riddle me this, Batman: why don't we have a word for the opposite of phallic? The Phoenician god Phallus had BOTH sexual organs. Therefore, a phallus or phallic symbol is technically anything that resembles either gender's sexual organs. But the word has become synonymous with "dick -looking" or "winky-resembling", so I have invented a new term in "wombic."

People, women in particular, are quick to point out a phallic symbol, and then feign some lack of understanding as to why simple, pig-like males feel the need to build things that look like cocks. But no one seems to notice that every window, every door, every train tunnel, every glass you drink out of, every flower, every vase, and Angelina Jolie's mouth all look like cooters. And before you get all, "flowers are naturally occurring," on me, need I remind you that bananas and pickles (cucumbers), the most famous of all edible wangs, grows freely in the wild? Every tree resembles both a cock and the Fallopian tubes.

Alls I'm saying is, there's a reason you girls like Angelina Jolie. Her face is a symbol. You're just as vain as we are, just as power-hungry and quick to battle, and everyone is always designing things that look like prettier or more complex versions of sexual organs, because it is the thing that subconsciously guides everything we do, and the more our religions or politics repress it, the more it comes out in everything you do.

To cap it all off: if every popsicle is a schlong, then what's an ice cream cone once the top scoop is gone? Girls, you're just not looking for anything but penises everywhere, and you're ignoring all the symbolic punani. I promise you, if you look around for this stuff, and watch for that guy you think is hot eating his Jell-O shot in the right way, life's so much more fun.

Sadie's Hearsay – A Gossip Column

So....

...I hear a certain Kernel*, new bartender at the local bar Schwilla Bam Bam* had sex with Naked Girl* in the bathroom at Minn FcCool's*....

...and a certain Vagina* has defected to the newly cool team, Gooseflatulence*, thus proving the common sentiment that the Angry* team have jumped the shark.

*Names have been changed to protect the innocent

...speaking of the Angries*, it's also been reported that Cheap Thrill* has also defected to the Police*. So much dissention, is there any loyalty in the COCK* anymore?

...Oh yeah, and Po Boy and Chrissy the Siamese twins were finally split in a surgical operation this week. (See St. Patrick's day pics on the website for before pictures)

Apologies to the Last Spotlight Interview

For the Katrina edition of the newsletter, I left out a Spotlight interview questions in the name of space. I was chastised by my teammate, and so here I include the additional most important question, and an enormous apology to Professor John Dobry, IVniture.

John Dobry has a posse!

Q: Besides the Red Army disbanding what other things have you excited about the 2006 kickball season?

IVniture: I am disappointed the red army won't be around. As a member of two-time champs team IV, plus the only team that could beat the red army, their departure really puts us in a class by ourselves. I'm a fan of competition
